Ormidale House Estate is a fantastic facility for holiday makers or party organizers, an hour and a half West of Glasgow, in stunning scenery half a mile or so from the head of Loch Riddon and the famous Kyles of Bute.

The heart of the estate is a 13 bed-room, eight bathrooms, historic "Laird's House" sleeping up to 31. Just under 100 yards away, we have developed three other luxury properties that can be booked separately. The Mill House sleeps 22 in nine bedrooms, The Old Barn 16 in seven, and the little Garden Cottage can accommodate up to 9 guests in space-defying Tardis-style, as an overflow to any of the other properties. There is a shared, heated, indoor swimming pool, and we have recently completed a tennis court.

Luxuriously equipped, beautifully furnished, and with 23 acres of gardens, the individual houses are a fabulous base for a holiday, or venue for a house party.

Now available to let by the week or for short breaks, catered or self-catering, Ormidale was built by Campbells in 1696 and was the clan seat at one time. It was then extended in 1900 by Robert Lorimer into a lovely, light, airy house with great entertaining spaces. It has bags of atmosphere and history, but none of the formality you get in a hotel or a grand country house proper. The newly-developed houses combine original exposed internal stone walls with contemporary finishes and touches.

The gardens and woods will swallow significant numbers of children for whole days at a time, but there's plenty to do inside the houses as well. There's a full-size billiard room in the main house, and there's also a separate children's games cottage with table tennis, darts and a pool table. All the houses have private saunas, and seven person hot tubs.

All three houses have two television rooms each, each with full SKY plus and all the sport and movie channels; there's a decent library in each house, and we supply jig saws, children's toys, and numerous board games.

The Cowal peninsula is a fabulous holiday location with walking, cycling, riding, golfing, fishing, and all water sports available within a few minutes of the house. We can arrange shooting or stalking for those who want it. The scenery around us is stunning; if you don't want to see any of it, the house is a lovely, comfy haven, in which to stay put.
